UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

KING AK-SAR BEN LXI

DEDICATION

Dr. Milo Bail was presented as King Ak-Sar-Ben LXI on October 21, 1955. By capturing Omaha's highest civic honor, he holds the distinction of being the first educator to rule the mythical realm.

Since coming to Omaha in 1948, Dr. Bail has endeared himself to students, faculty and friends, and has promoted much growth and progress at the University. As an educator he has been associated with fields from chemistry and physics to football, basketball and track.

A quotation of Dr. Bail's following his presentation as King of Quivera typifies his unselfish, humble personality. . . ."The record that you—faculty, staff and students—have made at the University during my seven years made it possible for me to get this high honor. You are the ones being honored. I am very humble but happy to bring this high distinction to your University."

And so to the man who has accumulated honors "one at a time" and has so successfully reached the top, to the man who symbolizes education at its best—to you, Dr. Bail—we are proud to dedicate this 1956 Tomahawk.

Mr. Gene Eppley

Formal dedication ceremonies for the Gene Eppley Library were held on Sunday, February 5, 1956, in the Adult Education Center Auditorium. Mr. Eppley presented the keys to President Milo Bail who turned them over to Librarian Ellen Lord.

Formal acceptance of the new building was made by Milton Peterson, Jr. for the Board of Regents, Dr. Robert Harper for the faculty, Warren Whitted for the Alumni Association, and Lewis Radcliffe for the student body.

Following the acceptance speeches, a portrait of Mr. Eppley was unveiled in the main hall of the Library. Clarence Kirkland, president of the Board of Regents, delivered the main address.

Keys to the new building.

The Gene Eppley Library and Adult Education Center has been "dedicated to the educational and cultural lives of the citizens of Omaha." Through this dedication we have endeavored to perpetuate the humanitarianism of Mr. Eugene C. Eppley and to acknowledge his great desire to share with his fellow Omahans in the University's achievements and influence for good in this area.

As the donor of the Gene Eppley Library, Mr. Eppley becomes one of the first men in the United States to share the fruits of his labor with his fellow-townspeople through their Municipal University, an institution which is dedicated to higher education for all.

The University and the community will be forever grateful to Mr. Eppley, President of the Eugene C. Eppley Foundation, for this significant expression of confidence in the University.

Thank you, Gene Eppley.

MILO BAIL
President

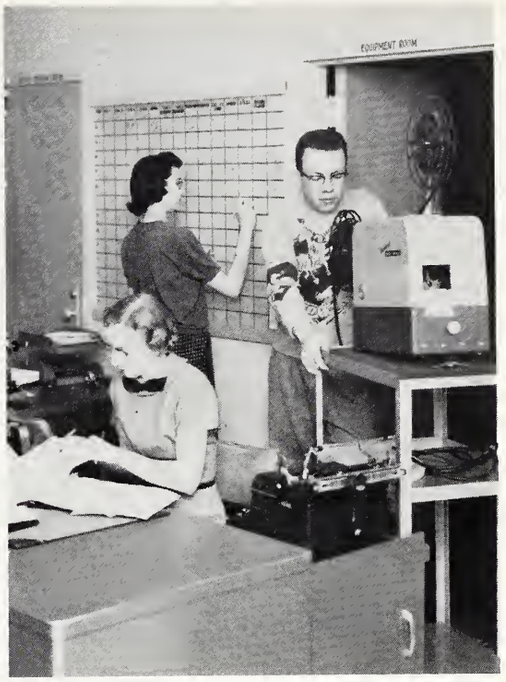
Gene Eppley Library



Audio-Visual Office

The Gene Eppley Library is one of the finest and most modern libraries in the country. It offers every type of study aid, advantage and convenience to all users.

There are 104,000 books in the library now, all placed on open shelves. Accommodations have been made for at least 150,000 more in future years. The first floor of the library houses the Adult Education Center, the Audio-Visual Department, and reference and reading rooms.

The Adult Education Center has an auditorium, conference rooms, lecture halls, and a lounge. The Audio-Visual Department has preview rooms, projection rooms, a photographic darkroom, a laboratory for teaching methods, and a graphic arts division.

The second floor provides a large study area and research and seminar rooms. Fluorescent lights and acoustical ceilings are used throughout the building for the best study conditions.

New Music Hall

Peterson and Custer at rehearsal

The new music building, which adjoins the south side of the Fieldhouse, was opened to classes in December.

The Music department which had been scattered in different parts of the main building is now a unified department. The new unit, which houses all OU music activities, offers the department the possibility to function as a whole by uniting faculty, class and practice space.

The main features of the new addition are the department offices, a large central rehearsal hall and large amounts of storage space. Storage closets and lockers border the rehearsal hall on three sides.

Teaching and individual practice rooms are available to the music students and a special music library is provided for their use.

Must have been a sour note.

Putting on the finishing touches.

ALUMNI

Alumni Secretary, Jim Erixon and office secretary, June Gautier

The Alumni Association unites all former University of Omaha students in an organization dedicated to preserving college friendships and working for a finer university.

In 1955 the Alumni Fund campaign set an all-time record by collecting $8,610. Among the contributors was Glenn L. Martin, Ph.D. '45, whose $5,000 gift established a scholarship in his name. First winner Ralph Ewert is shown at left.

Senior Senator Roman L. Hruska, 25, accepted the Citation for Alumnus Achievement at the Achievement Day Banquet June 4, 1955. Other award winners were '55 Fund Chairman Glenn C. Cunningham, '35, who received the Alumni Fund Recognition Award; Marcia Morris, '55, the Daniel E. Jenkins Scholarship, and Jerry Tannahill, '55, Athlete of the Year Award.

Association members celebrated the '55 Homecoming victory with a dance at the Fontenelle Hotel. Through the Alumni Fund they helped sponsor the Institute on World Affairs.

Officers for 1955-56 are Warren Whitted, '41, president; Donald B. Johnson, '48, vice-president; Eileen Wolfe Damhoff, '50, secretary; and Alan Pascale, '50, treasurer.

Most Omaha University students are aware of the importance of the faculty members in their daily life. However, very few people realize that the University needs more than teachers.

Many students know the workers in the Business and Registrar's offices, the professors' secretaries and the library and bookstore employees, but they don't realize that there are many other people hired to make OU a better place to get an education. Those that they are least conscious of are probably the most important. Cafeteria and student Club facilities are provided so that one may eat at almost any hour of the day. Buildings and grounds employees work hard to keep the buildings and lawns in excellent condition.

These are the people behind the scenes who make OU your University.

At Ma-ie Day festivities trophies were awarded to the men's and women's groups represented by the most donors. The winning organizations were Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and Phi Beta Chi fraternity. The groups had twenty-one and eighteen volunteers respectively. Ninety-two pints of blood were collected.

Fall Registration

The only thing free on campus.

Over 2,300 students signed up for classes as fall registration was boosted to the largest enrollment in the history of the University of Omaha. This figure was an increase of almost sixteen percent over last year's enrollment.

This record-breaking enrollment included over 800 freshmen, the largest class ever to attend the school.

Over 2,200 students enrolled in university night classes, bringing the total enrollment to about 4,500.

Class cards, counselors, class schedules, and the book store were all moved to the University Field House in order to handle the record-breaking registration.

The boys had better pay up.

Founder's Day

Faculty and students celebrated forty-seven years of progress of the University of Omaha on Founder's Day, Oct. 7.

An informal coffee hour honored alums, trustees and former university Regents. Al Gordon, former president of the Omaha University board of directors prior to the University's becoming a municipality, spoke at the coffee hour.

The celebration marked nearly a half-century of academic growth. The University of Omaha was incorporated as a co-educational, non-sectarian college in 1908 at 24th and Pratt Streets. In 1930 Omaha citizens voted to establish the Municipal University of Omaha.

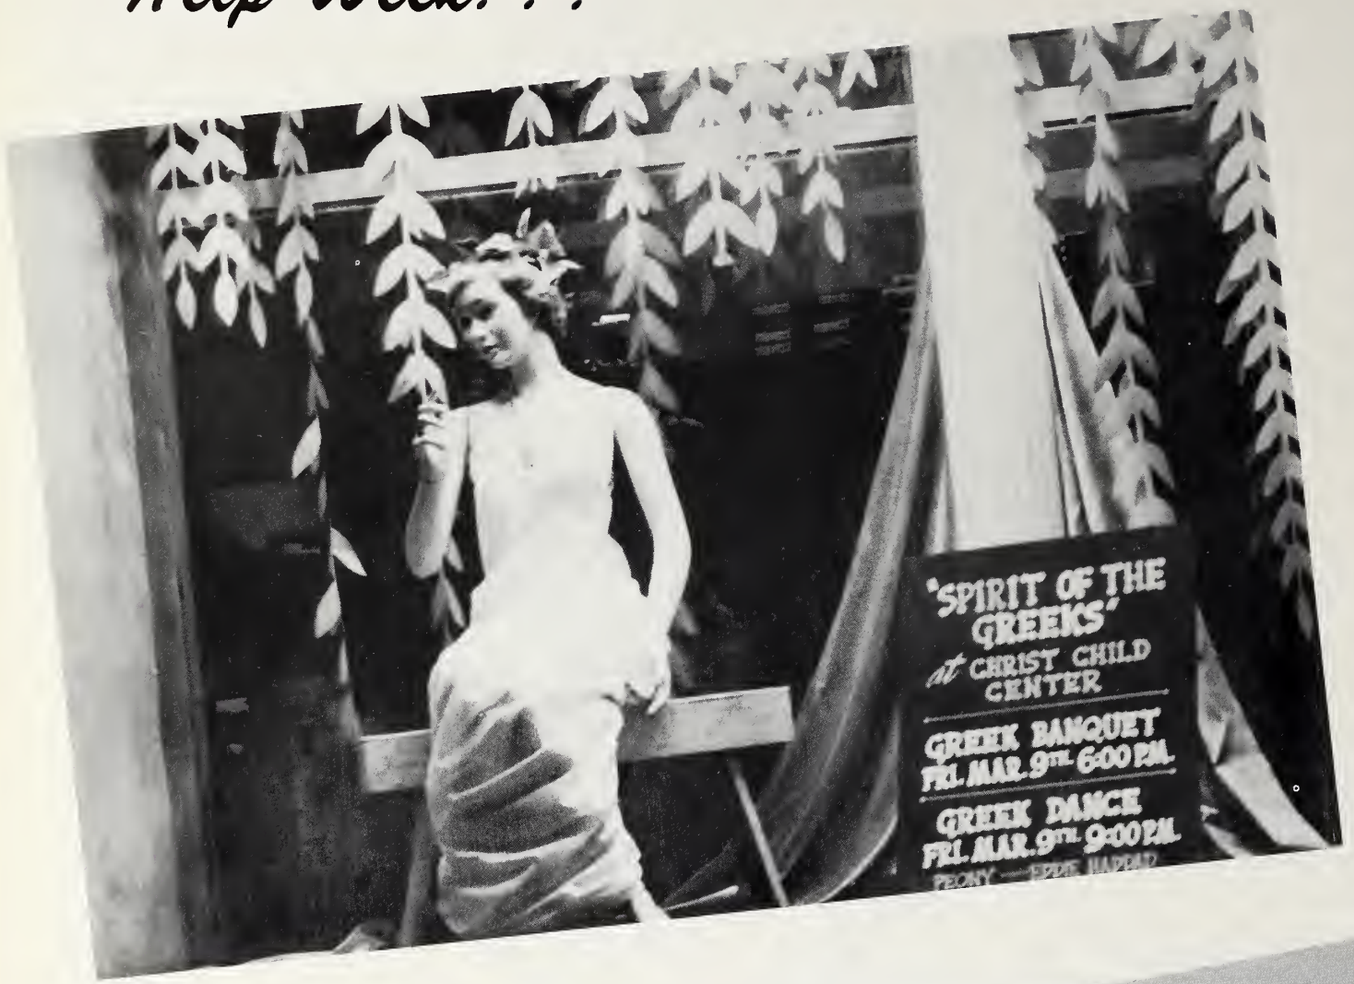
Help Week. . .



"The spirit of the Greeks" was the theme of the 1956 Greek Week-Help Week activities. Omaha University Greek letter organizations proved once again that cooperation and working together result in a worthwhile experience.

Under the direction of Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council, sorority and fraternity members renovated and redecorated the Christ Child Center, 1212 South 22nd.

"Mission accomplished!" declared speaker Capt. John Plantikow, AF-ROTC instructor, at the Greek Week banquet. The banquet and dance climaxed the week of work.

General committees were headed by Lowell Huber and Judy Rogers, IFC and Panhellenic presidents. Park Ames and Bob Rasgorshek were co-chairmen of the project.

University Players opened the 1955-56 theatre season at Omaha U with their production of N. Richard Nash's "The Rainmaker" Nov. 4 and 5.

The cast of seven persons portrayed the story of a midwestern family with two problems: how to get the daughter, Lizzie, "married off," and what to do about the drought. Hugh Allen, playing the role of the bragging, fast talking rainmaker, offers solutions to both their problems. He brings rain, collects his one-hundred dollars as payment, and convinces Lizzie that she is not a plain girl.

The role of Lizzie, only female part in the play, was played by Marlene Hoffman. Others in the cast were Gifford Anderson, Jerry Emery, Thomas Finley, Jon Lundberg and Don McKeen.

MUSIC ACTIVITIES

A series of concerts and performances were all a part of the Omaha University Music Department this year. Under the direction of Arthur Custer, the band formed a council to act as a general governing body. Band officials this year included Drum Major Rodney Murray, Jack Fullerton, Bud Pratt and George Johnston.

The band played at most of the home football games, and at school convocations. A seven-man combo, called the "Fieldhouse Nine Minus Two," provided pep music at rallies and basketball games.

John Miller directed the school choir in a fine program for Christmas. A year ago in the spring, the music department put on a show featuring individual performers in the instrumental and vocal field.

Greeks celebrate successful week with dance.

GREEK WEEK

Annual Greek Help Week activities, held last year from March 28 to April 1, began when Greeks redecorated the YMCA gymnasium and additional recreation rooms. Ron Jenkins directed work activity.

The annual banquet and presentation of achievement awards closed Greek Week.

Chi Omega and Pi Kappa Alpha won group scholarship awards. Jo Olsen and Roger Dunbier took individual trophies.

Marilyn Kline, JoAnn Manger and Susan Rowe tied three ways for pledge scholarship awards, while Robert Henkens received the fraternity cup.

Outstanding pledges were Sue Moss and Bob Rasgorshek.

The Pledge Dance followed the banquet.

ALL-GREEK SING

For the third consecutive year Alpha Xi Delta sorority took first place in the Sigma Phi Epsilon All-Greek Sing, thus securing permanent possession of the trophy.

In the men's division Theta Chi fraternity placed first for the second year in a row.

Competition was judged by John Miller, new head of the University vocal music department. Each group was required to sing both a competition song, and a fraternity song of its choice. Competition song for the women's organizations was "I'll See You in My Dreams." Fraternity groups sang "The Desert Song."

The annual Sing, sponsored by Sig Ep fraternity, was held last fall at Teitz Barn instead of Hill Haven as in past years. The change of locations was made necessary by the growing yearly attendance.

Traditional group singing was held previous to the competition, and dancing followed.

After the sing, cider and doughnuts were served.

Overall chairman for the dance was Jim Nemer. Jack Lemen was secretary and Judi Hansen was treasurer.

The skit was written by Sandy Dungan and Al Longacre. Walt Gray and Kay McGinty were in charge of decorations, and John Maddux was courtesy chairman.

The dance was planned by members of all the pledge classes with the assistance of Judy Rogers and Lowell Huber, Pan-Hellenic and Interfraternity Council presidents, respectively.

The main project of the year was the designing and construction of Indian costumes used for the Homecoming princess candidates in the bonfire and ceremonies.

Besides the regular business meetings the Home Ec Club sponsored a Christmas cookie sale. A smorgasbord of foreign foods cooked by the individual members was held in February. They also entertained members of the American Dietetic Association in the Fall.

The groups constitution states that it will attempt to be "first and foremost," and to assist in all dramatic productions of the school. The group also aims to create a strong interest in drama and stagecraft.

A tea honoring prospective members is held in the fall to acquaint them with the club's activities, and students may earn membership points by working on the various committees as well as appearing on stage in the plays. Formal initiation of members is held yearly.

Players entertain for local civic and social organizations by presenting readings and one act plays.

Officers were Hugh Allen, president; Marlene Hoffman, vice-president; Jean Bednar, secretary; Paul Blaufuss, treasurer.

Watersports Club

Active interest in water activities is the requirement for membership in the Watersports Club. Meetings are held twice monthly at the Jewish Community Center on Sunday evenings. An aqualung demonstration, underwater swimming with the aqualung, and life-saving practices are a few of the meeting activities.

Canoe-swim parties at Fremont and Manawa, and an ice-skating party also kept members interested.

STAFFS

Student Union and classroom building plans occupied much of the Spring semester's Gateway coverage. Editors had field days as they tried the new plan of taking and processing their own pictures. Some were even used.

Editor-in-chief was Marcia Miller. Assisting her were Keith McMillan as managing editor and Sue Moss as news editor. Managing the news flow of special sections were Kay Anderson, campus-current events; Warren Francke, sports; and Elaine Hennig, society. Carolee Disney was morgue editor.

Track Takes Limelight

Track

Coach Ernie Gorr

A highly successful track season saw INDIAN track and field men win national notice, and add a bevy of trophies to a fast growing reputation of track accomplishments. Highlights of the season include Bob Gerdeman's Drake Relay 400 meter hurdle victory, Bill Barnes' 19 first place finishes in high and low hurdle events, and two new mile relay records set at the Doane and Sioux City Relays.

Top row: Postlewait, Georgios, Olson, May, Jensen, Trumbauer, Hunter, Gorr.

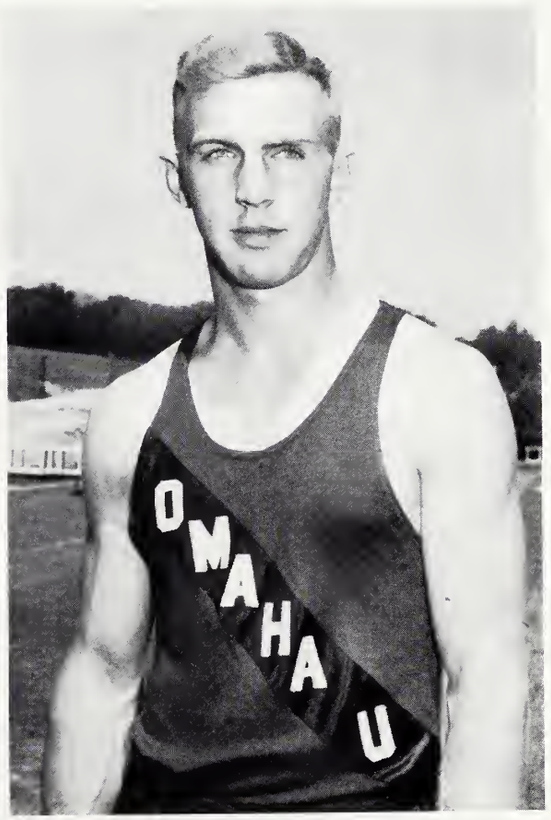
Champions

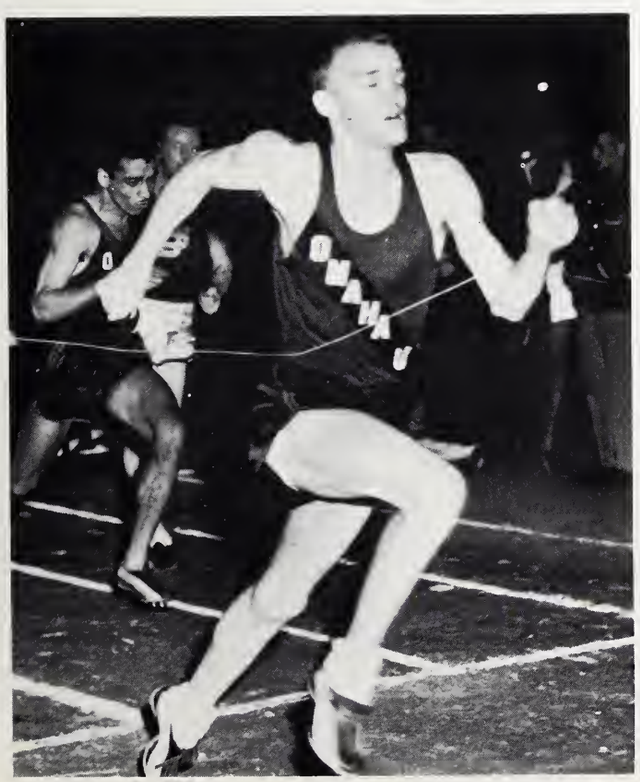
Champion Mile Relay Team

THE MILE RELAY TEAMS at Omaha U have won first place in the event three years running at the Sioux City Relays. Last spring Gerdeman, Lainson, Means and Barnes did it again. With that effort they retired the coveted Saunderson Memorial trophy. The winning time was 3:22.8. The same quartet set a new Doane Relay record for the mile relay with the better time of 3:21.7.

BOB GERDEMAN is the national NAIA 400 meter hurdles champion. His time was :53.2. The soft spoken track star startled a nation-wide television audience with his great exhibition in winning at the 1955 Drake Relays. Gerdeman was also a key man on the mile relay quartet that set two relay records last spring.



Champion Bob Gerdeman



Champion Bill Barnes

BILL BARNES is the national NAIA 220 yard low hurdles champion. At the NAIA national meet at Abilene, Tex., Barnes ran the 220 in :23.6 to better the existing national record. But the time was not official because of the wind. Barnes scored more first place finishes than any other OU trackman in 1955. He also earned the most points for the team.

Varsity Wins Over Grads, 39-14

The strong Indian football team that materialized in the fall of '55 was put to it's first test when the Alumni team challenged, and fell to the Varsity 39-14 on May 7, 1955. Team balance, traditional single wing strength, and new found "T" formation capabilities were in evidence as six of Cardwell's men figured in the scoring.

Grid Success Continues

Football

Coach Lloyd Cardwell

Omaha University's powerful Indians swept past all but one foe on their nine game schedule to compile the second best record in the school's history in 1955. Coach Lloyd Cardwell used the dependable single wing formation with a split "T" variation to befuddle opposition. More important than the formation used though was the hard, steady play of OU's veteran line sparked by some great backfield performances by Engelhardt, Smith, Steck, and Rigatuso Incorporated.

A fired up Washburn eleven was the only team to slow the Red and Black attack. High spots in a thrill packed season were the wins over Eastern Kentucky State and Idaho State on the home grounds, and a hard fought win over previously unbeaten St. Ambrose on the road.

Co-captains Frank Hahn and Simon A. Simon will be back at the guard posts to lead the 1956 Indians along with Little All American Billy Engelhardt.

Tangerine Replay

The largest home crowd in Omaha University's history saw the Indians battle Eastern Kentucky State to a 20-13 victory. Over 8,000 fans saw the replay of 1955's New Year's Day Tangerine Bowl game. The contest at the Omaha Municipal Stadium was the first night home game since 1948. Long drives and an aerial duel between Bill Engelhardt and Kentucky's Bobby Lenderman featured the contest. Engelhardt was OU's main offensive weapon figuring in all three Indian touchdowns. He inintercepted a pass to set up the first TD, and ran for the third touchdown.

Homecoming 1955

Undefeated and untied Idaho State was Omaha University's Homecoming opponent. The Bengals came to Omaha with eight straight lopsided victories and the championship of the Rocky Mountain Conference.

For the first time in two seasons the Indians were underdogs. At stake for Omaha was not only a football game, but a Homecoming victory string that extended back to World War II.

The Indians came through with a great team effort to lower the boom on the Bengals, 18-7. OU's little All-American Bill Engelhardt led the Omaha U attack, accounting for 261 yards in the air and on the ground.

Nineteen OU gridders saw action in the contest. Starting linemen Ed Baker, Frank Hahn and Tom Harper didn't miss a play during the long afternoon.

The Homecoming win completed the fourth consecutive season without defeat at home for the Indians.

Banquet honors gridders

Cardwell, Dana X. Bible, Yelkin

One of the nation's foremost football coaches and athletic directors, Dana X. Bible, spoke at the Quarterback Club-sponsored banquet at the Paxton Hotel. Bible, former Nebraska University coach, praised the game, Omaha University's fine team and coaches, and the spirit of the people of the state of Nebraska.

A number of men who were prominent in football during the Bible era attended the banquet. Among them, Blue Howell, Dave Noble, and Omaha U's own Lloyd Cardwell and Virgil Yelkin.

The biggest crowd ever to attend an OU football banquet listened attentively to brief, interesting talks by Dr. Milo Bail, University President; Bob Goodell, Quarterback Club prexy, and others. Coaches Lloyd Cardwell, Tom Brock, Rudy Rotella, and Jack Cotton then presented the much-deserved Varsity and Papoose letters to the men who worked to build OU's splendid 8-1 football record.

Player balloting at the end of the season revealed three hard working linemen as receivers of top football honors. Senior center Tom Harper, hard hitting linebacker was named by his teammates as "Most Valuable Player" of the 1955 season. Tom was unerring at center, a difficult position to play on a single-wing team. Time after time he broke up pass plays. Harper was one of the hardest hitting tacklers on the squad.

A pair of rough-and-ready guards — 210-pound Frank Hahn and 205-pound Simon Simon — were chosen by the Indians as co-captains for the 1956 football team. They were termed the "finest pair of guards a coach could hope for" by line coach Tom Brock. The performance best remembered by OU fans is the 60-minute play of the new captains in the 1955 Tangerine Bowl victory over Eastern Kentucky State.

Both guards were named honorable mention in the Mid-Bracket All-American ratings.

Coach Cardwell congratulates 1956 captains.

"A beginning." Those are coach Ernie Gorr's words describing the 1955 Cross Country season. This was the first year OU has fielded a Cross Country team, and it competed against some of the strongest squads in the area.

Mel Decker was the standout Indian performer. The hard working senior was consistently among the top four at the finish line.

For those with questions about the sport, scoring is like golf, the lowest number of points wins. OU was winless this season, but groundwork was laid for more participation in the sport next fall.

Building year for cagers

Basketball

A hustling but undermanned Omaha U basketball team completed its first season under coach Jack Cotton. The new Indian mentor, former Wyoming University and Denver Nugget basketball star, instilled a spirit of go-till-the-final-whistle. Sparked by the steady play of Stan Schaetzle and Dean Thompson, the cagers played good ball all year. Outstanding games by Howard Baker, Bob Sklenar, Don Meade and John Morse pulled the team through for wins in several games that the dopesters picked OU to lose.

One of the brighest spots in the season was OU's suprise 62-53 win over South Dakota U on the OU court. The Red & Black started off with a bang in their NAIA Tip Off Tourney game against Western Illinois. The reserve strength and experience of the Illinois team, eventually tournament champs, proved too much and they won 89-65. Stan Schaetzle had the top single game performance with a 33 point night against Kansas City University. Dean Thompson hit for 29 that night, the second high single game total.

Best thing about the season was the chance for a new coach to establish his style of play here. With a good nucleus for the 1956-57 team returning next season, and a promising crop of reserves coming up from Rudy Rotella's Papoose team, next year's team is potentially a top drawer quintet.

A post-season player vote chose seniors Bob Sklenar and Howard Baker as Co-Captains.

New Coach

A new coach took his place on the OU coaching staff this fall. Jack Cotton is the newest Indian mentor. He was athletic director at Southwestern College before coming here.

OU athletes call the new varsity basketball coach a real firebrand. Red and Black rooters saw more hustle and fire in this year's cage quintet than has been seen in many years.

The tall, friendly Montanan graduated from Denver University, prior to that he played at Wyoming. Cotton has also had pro experience with the famed Denver Nuggets. His basic coaching belief: HUSTLE!

Pawnees took an early league lead and never relinquished it. Jack Lee, Bill Engelhardt, Dick Cotton and the Stella brothers led the way to the Pawnee 8-0 record.

Theta Chi took top honors in the Interfraternity division. Sigma Phi Epsilon, Pi K A, Phi Beta Chi and Lambda Chi Alpha finished in that order.

Unsanctioned, but unsuppressible, hockey is a sport that seems to crop up each year on the O.U. Campus.

This year, being no exception, hockey was started as an informal activity, with irregularly scheduled games between four groups, the Theta Chi's, Pi Kap's, Veteran's All Star's and Sig Ep's largely filling the bill.

The Sig Ep's, at the risk of marring a 3-year, no-loss record, have purchased a trophy and are sponsoring the first of what they will hope will be an annual tournament. March 15th saw four of the original six teams surviving the hazards of single elimination play.

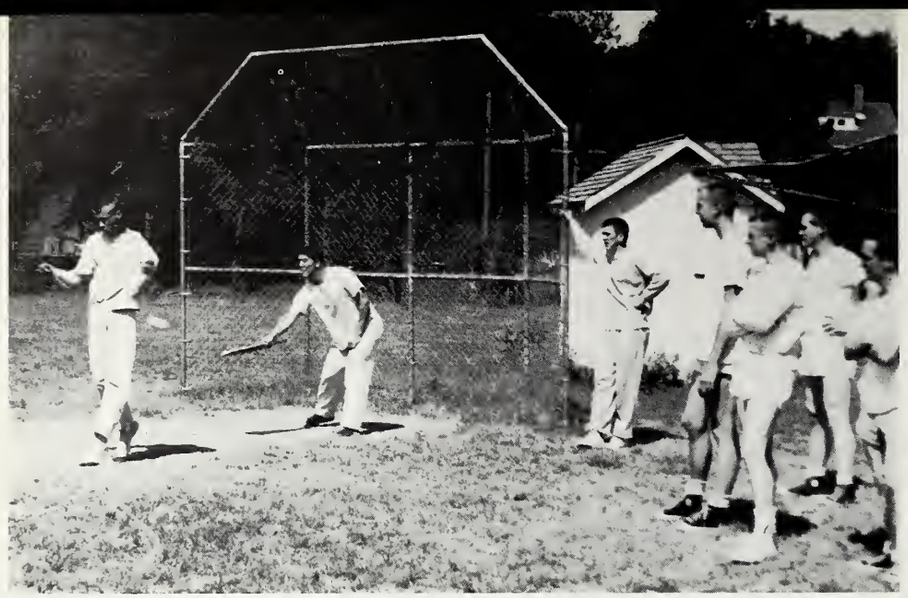
BOWLING

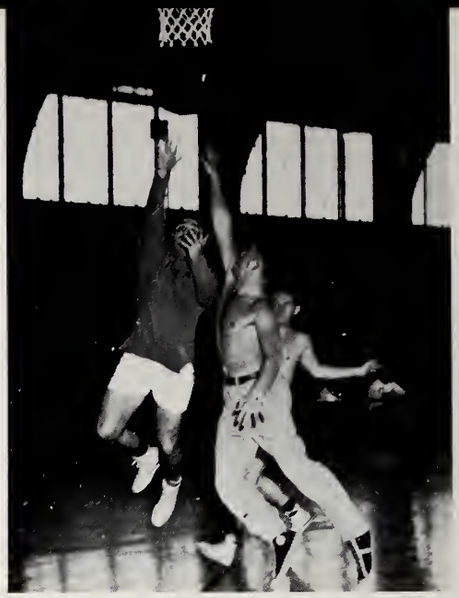
	W	L
Independents	36	15
Lambda Chi	32	19
Pawnees	32	19
Sioux	29	22
Sig Epsilon	24	27
Theta Chi	24	27
Phi Beta Chi	23	28
Pi Kappa Alpha	20	31
ISA-X	18	33
AF-ROTC	14	37

Theta Chi's Don Munson and Sig Ep's Dana Tucker led the way in individual bowling as a well balanced intramural and inter-fraternity league kept sports interest high all winter. ISA and Lambda Chi offered the most consistent team performances.

A seventeen game win streak early in the season enabled the Independents to take a strong lead, one they never relinquished. Lambda Chi, always strong in bowling, stayed close on heels of ISA all season, but could not overtake them.

Although nudged in intramurals, the Lambda Chis took the inter-fraternity crown handily.





Freshmen participating in college intramurals and athletic programs concentrate primarily on learning team sports and group activities. The factor of working together is stressed.

As the student progresses in years, so does training on an individual sports basis. Bowling, golf and badminton are a few of the sports which are offered to those interested in the program. Team records are kept to help increase sportsmanship and further the will to compete.

Physical education director, Tom Brock, is assisted in the program by coaches Lloyd Cardwell and Ernie Gorr.

In case of inclimatic conditions, all facilities of the field house are available for use.

In addition to teaching the will and desire to win, is the one main objective—sportsmanship.

Women

A well rounded program of physical education activities keeps Omaha U coeds busy the year round. Closely allied with Women's Recreation Association, girls P E courses usually furnish the cream of the crop of women's intramural athletes.

From soccer and archery in September and October, the sports program moves on to basketball, table tennis, and volleyball in the winter months. Spring brings activity outdoors again, and the women's athletic field bustles with golf, tennis, and softball activity.

The Physical Education program for women has been expanded in scope and participation under Kathryn Schaake. This year more girls took part in more P E activities than ever before.

The Women's Recreation Association at the University enjoyed a year-long athletic program. More than 200 women participated in the program, which consists of tennis, golf, softball, archery, badminton, volleyball, basketball, bowling, modern dancing, and rifle competition.

The Unaffiliated team took top honors in 1955. They won the Overall Outstanding Plaque which was presented at the Awards Banquet at the Fontenelle Hotel last spring.

WRA activities during the past year include the annual Christmas Party at the Creche Children's Home, and the state women's physical education convention.

WRA officers this year were Shirley Barnum, president; Mary Ann Leo, vice-president; Kay Talty, secretary-treasurer. Shirley Barnum and Sue Moss represented OU at the National Athletic Federation of College Women at Smith College, in Northhampton, Massachusetts in March, 1955.

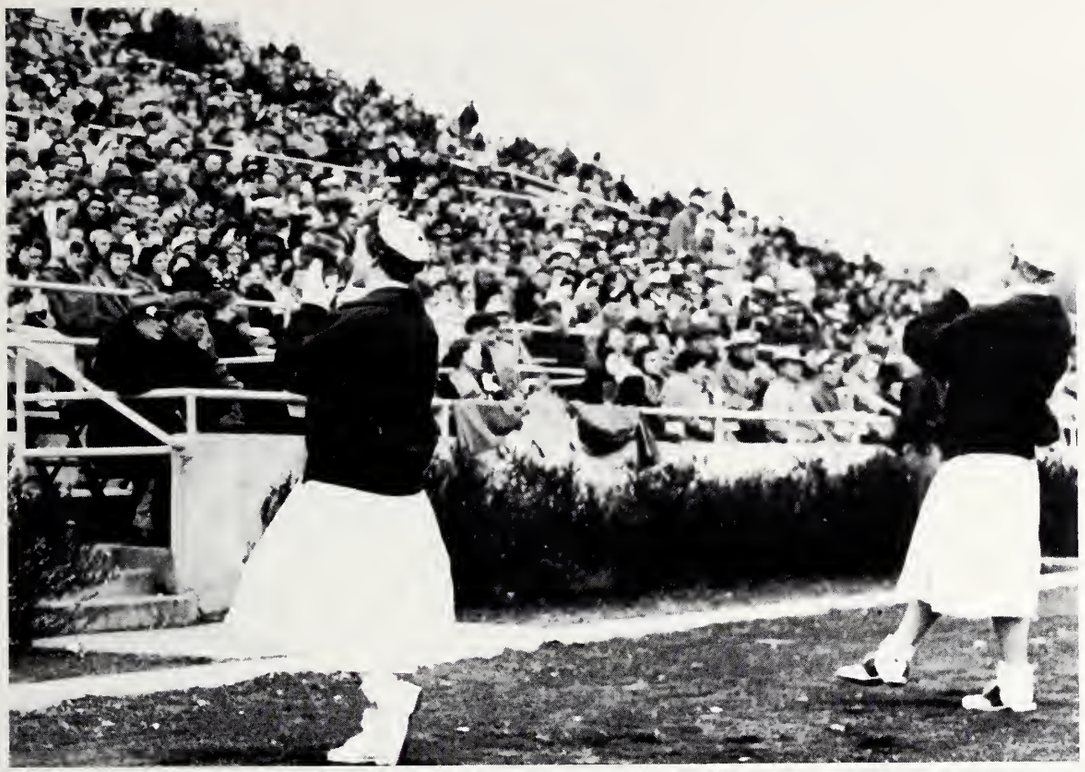
W.R.A. Banquet

Margaret Killian was main speaker at the OUWI Awards Banquet at the Fontenelle Hotel last spring.

The Overall Outstanding Plaque went to the Unaffiliated team. Individual awards went to Sue Moss for tennis, Kay Talty for tennis doubles with Miss Moss, Bev Thoma for golf, and Nancy Land for badminton.

Other team awards went to Chi Omega for basketball, and Unaffiliated for volleyball.

Welcoming new officers.



Lots of pep at Homecoming.

Cheerleaders

School spirit remained high throughout the year mainly because of efforts of the seven cheerleaders. The squad, captained by Jean Harrington McKee for the second straight year, led student support for Indian basketball and football teams.

Members of the cheerleaders, who attended every home football and basketball game, were Betti Coleman, Sharyn Heldt, Bob Holsten, Jean McKee, Gayle Martin, Judy Samuelson and Dick Vernon.

WORLD AFFAIRS

This year's tenth annual Institute on World Affairs featured seven guest lecturers from the fields of government, international relations, history and philosophy. Professor William T. Utley of the University of Omaha conducted the Institute.

The theme, "Since the Summit" concerned the Geneva Conference of last summer.

Opening the six week lecture series was Hanson Baldwin, military editor of the New York Times. Baldwin, leading civilian authority on military affairs, spoke on "The Summit and Western Security."

Dr. Hans Morgenthau, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, discussed "Germany and Western Security."

"Southeast Asia Since Geneva" was the main topic of Dr. Diosdado Yap, editor and publisher of the Bataan Magazine.

INSTITUTE

Of special interest to Nebraskans were reports on the American visit to Russian farms observed and told by Dr. William V. Lambert and Dr. Gale Johnson, both members of the American group visiting Russia this past summer. Lambert is Dean of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, and Johnson is agricultural economist at the University of Chicago.

His Excellency M. Maurice Couve de Murville, French Ambassador to the United States, spoke on "France and Western Security Programs," and Dr. Hans Kohn, outstanding authority on today's Europe, closed the session with "The World and the West."

William T. Utley, head of the history department, arranged and coordinated the Institute.

ADULT EDUCATION

The College of Adult Education, under the guidance of Dean Donald Emery, enjoyed a highly successful year. More than 2,500 students were enrolled in CAE courses which afford working people, service men, and teachers a chance to further their education.

More important than the record enrollment was the establishment of the Adult Education Conference Center, which is located in the new Gene Eppley Library. The Center has the Deans' Offices, a lounge, a large auditorium, and a variety of seminar and conference rooms. These rooms are available to civic groups throughout the Omaha area.

The CAE also offers credit courses through a TV Classroom series. Courses offered this year were "Problems in Teaching Reading," with Dr. Harry Johnson, Head of the Reading Improvement Lab, and "World Regions," with Dr. Richard Thoman, Head of the Geography Department.

"We do all this — and more."

DOORS OF KNOWLEDGE

OU Deans and faculty members were seen on the second semester WOW-TV Doors of Knowledge series.

Dean Donald Emery opened the series with a discussion of the CAE and the new library.

Dean Frank Gorman made the first of his two appearances with Miss Frances Holliday with whom he discussed Elementary Education. Paul Kennedy joined Gorman on the next program for a presentation of Secondary Education.

Dean Carl W. Helmstadter also appeared on two programs. He and Dr. D. N. Marquardt discussed chemistry, and he then teamed with Sylvester Williams for a program on engineering.

Dr. James Peterson and music department members wound up the series with a panel discussion of their field.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

Looking, planning, striving toward some future goal is an American trait. To no one is this more important than to the student preparing for his career.
Woodmen look to the future confident they are protected in emergencies or in the future by safe, sound, legal reserve Woodmen life insurance. They also are forming valued, lifelong friendships by taking part in Woodcraft's fraternal and social activities.
